

Tina Altieri, News Presenter, Media Trainer, Public Speaking Coach

Tina Altieri is a dynamic and engaging communicator who has earned great respect through her 20 years in the Australian broadcast news business. As a T.V presenter, Tina has developed an exclusive result-oriented communications program - Engaging Executives[™] - for professionals seeking the skills, strategies and confidence for powerful public presentations and media interviews.

Her communications company- Media Australasia Xchange (MAX) has provided coaching to an impressive list of senior managers in banking and finance, professional services, construction, media and marketing and politics. Critical to her success as a public speaking trainer is Tina's ability to dramatically enhance performance through a series of practical techniques. She conveys a thorough understanding of the process of precision communication and shows how the ability to sell yourself well and pitch your ideas effectively can be the difference between failure and success. Tina has provided consulting and training to business leaders of 30 Australian and international corporations including The Reserve Bank of Australia, Apple (Asia), McDonalds Australia, Ernst and Young, BHP Billiton, CapitaLand, Starwood Hotels, Police Dept of Western Australia (WA) and Dept of Education and Training (WA).

Even for the most senior manager public speaking, making an important pitch for business and dealing with the media can be daunting experiences. Engaging Executives will help you master the confidence and skills needed to be an outstanding public speaker and to perform media interviews with polish and credibility.

These sessions encourage participants to learn the vital techniques to create and deliver inspiring presentations. These skills will ensure everyone learns how to make a powerful impact every time they're in the spotlight – be it in front of a small group or under the scrutiny of a massive TV audience.
