

DESTINATION ITALY EGA PROMOTING ITALY'S CANDIDACY ABROAD

ega professional congress organisers continue to promote the Italian candidacy for two important world congresses that will take place in Italy during the next few years: IFA – International Fiscal Association (<http://www.ifa.nl/index.htm>) and ESPGHAN – European Society for Paediatric Gastroenterology, Hepatology and Nutrition (<http://www.espghan.med.up.pt/>). The first will take place in Rome in 2010, while the second will take place in Sorrento in 2011. As it usually happens, the candidacies were promoted during the Congresses' previous editions, which this year took place in Brazil and Belgium.

ESPGHAN 2008 – Iguassu Falls, Brazil, 16-20 August

Within the gorgeous scenery of Iguassu Falls, during the Assembly, the Italian Committee of ESPGHAN, represented by Professors Alfredo Guarino, Annamaria Staiano and Riccardo Troncone, presented the Italian candidacy for Sorrento during the General Assembly. The famous parthenopaeian city was unanimously accepted by the audience, and was consequently confirmed as the location for the 2011 edition of the Congress.

The next appointment to promote the Italian candidacy will take place in Hungary: Budapest, 3-6 June 2009, during the 42nd ESPGHAN World Congress.

The Italian delegation was received in Brussels by the Italian Ambassador, Sandro Maria Siggia, who organised a reception for the delegates.

Among the products were selected wines (Pinot Grigio “Prestige 2007”, Roero Arneis Pescaja 2006, Montepulciano d’Abruzzo DOC, Caldora 2007 and Scabi 2006) and Parmigiano Reggiano cheese.
